About the Director

Sunny Menon entered the independent filmmaking arena some 10 years ago. His first known work is a 31 minutes documentary titled "Odes from far lands", which narrated an immigrant story, an ill-fated ship and touched upon a historical event, that has never been told. Giant production houses are still trying to make this a feature film. Sunny Menon himself has completed the script and is morphing this documentary into a full length feature film this year. Stages have been set to begin production.

His latest short film, "Small Steps", was credited in the Houston international film festival.

Known for his artistic approach and a story teller, he is, Sunny has works with experimental films and has evolved himself from the world of theaters. He has done forty plays in different languages. Films are a different form of expression and he has been dabbling with it since several years now. During the course, he wrote and directed nine films consisting of documentaries, shorts/narratives and music videos.
